

Christina Woodard

‘Everything you want is just outside your comfort zone’
Robert Allen

With a creative product that reaches from dance studios to television, industry showcases to world-class conventions. Christina’s edgy style, powerful choreography and challenging classes have put her in demand throughout the world.

Christina, has worked as a choreography, dancer, private coach, and master teacher in the entertainment industry for over 15 years. She has worked for many large television networks including CBS, NBC, and Nickelodeon.

Christina is a faculty member of the internationally renowned EDGE Performing Arts Center in Hollywood California and has performed, choreographed and assisted on projects including: Victorious (with Ariana Grande and Victoria Justice), ICarly, Gary Unmarried, Suddenly Susan, The Nikki Show, Fame LA, as well as national campaigns for Guess, Nike, Job Corps and Nestle.

Most recently Christina choreographed an episode of the new show Game Shakers on Nickelodeon and travelled to Australia and New Zealand to choreograph, teach and sit on judging panels for the well-known DanceLife Unite.

She continues to expand her creative brief and is currently working on projects for television and concepts for recording artists.