

Liz Imperio

Liz Imperio has established herself as a major director and choreographer in the entertainment industry. Some of her most well-known credits include artistic direction and choreography for Jennifer Lopez's "Dance Again" world tour, two world concert tours for Madonna's "Re-invention" tour and "Confessions" tour and director/choreographer of Gloria Estefan's last 3 world concert tours.

Liz was famed director Kenny Ortega's Associate Choreographer for 4 years before breaking out on her own. Her work ethic and sense of vision and style make her one of the most sought after choreographer-show directors in the business today. Continued notable credits include the show-stopping tribute performances by Jennifer Lopez on the American Music Awards (Celia Cruz) and Latin Billboard Awards (Selena), American Idol, Dancing with the Stars, The Billboard Awards, Latin Grammys, JLo in Puerto Rico Concert, Latin on Ice, United We Stand with Michael Jackson (associate director), VH1 Diva's, ABC's 50th Anniversary Celebration, Disney Channel original movie "Gotta Kick It Up" and James L. Brook's feature film "Spanglish".
